About Us

Mission:

Breakthrough New Orleans maximizes academic performance and builds leadership skills of motivated, middle school students with limited opportunities. We support our middle school students on their path to college and inspire high school and college students to pursue careers in education.

Model:

Breakthrough New Orleans is a tuition-free, year-round enrichment program for highly motivated middle school students with limited educational opportunities. The program seeks to prepare the students for challenging, college-preparatory high schools and college. Once accepted to Breakthrough New Orleans, the students make a three-year commitment during middle school, which includes a rigorous academic summer program, educational enrichment classes, after-school tutoring, mentoring, high school placement guidance and post-high school placement support and opportunities. During high school, students continue to receive academic, social and extracurricular opportunities through Breakthrough and our partner programs as Breakthrough supports them on the pathway to college.

What makes us unique? Our students-teaching-students model.

Breakthrough New Orleans at Isidore Newman School hires high school and college students to teach small classes that match their academic strengths and passions. They are trained by professional teachers in the craft of teaching, from curriculum development, to classroom management and student assessment.

Our teaching internship is consistently listed as a Princeton Review Top Ten Internship, along with the White House, the Supreme Court and MTV.
